2 ECTS credits

“Intercultural Management for a Sustainable Future”

“Intercultural Management for a Sustainable Future” is a two-week summer school specially designed by Clermont School of Business for a group of 25 participants from all around the world. In a multicultural setting, this summer school equips students with tools to address global sustainability challenges. Combining expert-led sessions, workshops, company visits, and cultural excursions, the programme offers a global approach to sustainable business and intercultural collaboration. Level up your skills with guidance from industry-savvy professors and a behind-the-scenes tour of a real-world business.
